Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Friday 26 Mar 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Turning colder with squally rain and wintry showers.

Today:
Through the morning a band of heavy rain pushes east. Sunny spells develop during the afternoon with scattered showers soon following, wintry over high ground, and with potential hail and thunder. Windy with a risk of severe coastal gales. Cold. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Tonight:
Further clear spells and blustery wintry showers with some snow accumulation over higher ground. Widespread frost with potential ice for some. Windy with a risk of severe coastal gales. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Saturday:
Largely clear and bright to start with patchy cloud thickening from the west during the afternoon. Isolated showers during the evening will precede overnight rain. Feeling chilly. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Murky on Sunday and Monday with light rain and drizzle, although turning milder. Largely clear and dry on Tuesday before a band of rain arrives from the northwest later. Windy.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.